Hi mat

You have done well so far

It would be great if we could just press a button and get all our family line

Like you I came to a standstill a few years back

I might start again next year but as you say it takes time and money there may be someone on here with access to a family search site are maybe what some people could do is all chip in together for membership to one of these sites and get someone to volunteer, send them the money and let them do the search for everyone

it would only work I think if it was done in small groups of say 5

Just a though

all the best Dan

It was my father i think who dug all this up recently i think if someone who had prior knowledge or experience in this kind of stuff then i'd be able to find out a lot more. But its a good start and the past isn't going anywhere haha :)
